WHAT IS A HYDROLATE

A hydrolate is a delicate cosmetic product for skin and hair care. Hydrolates are formed by the steam distillation of flower petals, herbs, leaves and bark in the process of essential oils production. One can say that in terms of aroma and properties, hydrolates are a reduced copy of essential oils. Toning and cleansing are among their general cosmetic features. At the same time, each will have the characteristics of "its" plant: for example, chamomile hydrolate is intended to soothe and heal the skin, lavender - to moisturize, and mint - to even the tone. Due to the aromatic molecules in their composition, hydrolates are mild aromatherapy agents.

WHY ARE BOTAVIKOS FUNCTIONAL HYDROLATES UNIQUE?

We have created a line of 10 functional hydrolates for special care for all skin and hair types. Each product consists of a plant base - light aromatic herbal or flower hydrolates. We have then added active ingredients of natural origin - betaine, zinc, inulin, glycine, wheat proteins and useful acids - to the base.

What is their uniqueness?

A high concentration of active ingredients in the composition enhances the effect of the hydrolates, and generally increases the effectiveness of the product.

Thus, each product in the series is designed to solve a specific cosmetic problem that any type of skin and hair may face at a certain moment: dehydration, imbalance, stress from external factors, tonicity reduction, hair weakening and brittleness. Functional hydrolates are powerful natural tonics with precise cosmetic purposes.

Weightless botanical scents add aromatherapy, grace and comfort to your usual care ritual.
